1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a method of printing a character, and more particularly to a method of generating dot patterns for printing a character by using an image compression technique, and to a printer for executing the method.

2. Related Background Art FIG. 1 is a diagram showing the dot patterns of an alphabet character. In this figure, a dot pattern of the alphabet A, the dot pattern of a letter b, and a dot pattern of a letter d are explained as the dot patterns of a character. As can be seen from this figure, as compared with the dot patterns of the alphabet A, the dot patterns of the letter b and the letter d contain many blank areas (dotted areas) or dot lines that are short in length.

FIG. 2 is a block diagram of a conventional printer, which includes a line memory for storing a character pattern of each dot row, a dot pattern generator for generating a dot pattern corresponding to the character pattern of each dot row stored in the line memory, a buffer memory for storing the dot pattern of each dot row, and a print head for driving a print head in accordance with the dot pattern stored in the buffer memory. In the prior art shown in FIG. 2, the dot pattern generator reads out the character pattern of each dot row from the line memory, and generates a dot pattern corresponding to the character pattern. This dot pattern is stored in the
