How powerful your computer is If you want to run Photoshop at its best, you need to have a fairly recent video card (video display adapter) and at least a gigabyte of memory (RAM). Photoshop runs on any operating system, so you can download a version that's compatible with your operating system. If you have a version of Photoshop that does not run on the operating system you're using, you can always download an older version from the Adobe website. When you download Photoshop from the website, you can also choose the _Edition_ number, which indicates which version of Photoshop you're downloading, so you'll know whether you're getting the current version or an older version. On a minimum memory and video card, Photoshop CC is also limited in performance and

Q: Unable to compress file using tar I have written the following script: #!/bin/bash path="/home/a101/Desktop/html/corp.html" header="a101.html" gzip -c $path > $header.gz However, I get the error message that gzip -c /home/a101/Desktop/html/corp.html > a101.html.gz: The filename, directory name, or volume label syntax is incorrect What am I doing wrong? A: You need to escape the $ characters in the file name with \: header="a101.html" path="/home/a101/Desktop/html/corp.html" gzip -c "$path" > "$header.gz" Analysis of 10,000 patients: risk factors for rebleeding and death after the first spontaneous intracerebral hemorrhage. To determine the risk factors for rebleeding and death after the first spontaneous intracerebral hemorrhage (SICH) in the population-based Helsinki SICH Study. Prospective, population-based study. Helsinki University Central Hospital. 10,595 patients with first SICH and with a known clinical outcome. Data from hospital, community, and national registers were recorded. The rates of rebleeding and death were 7.7% and 1.3%, respectively. Univariate analysis showed that age, SICH to intracerebral hemorrhage (ICH) transition, initial hematoma volume, and hematoma thickness were the most important variables, and in multivariable analysis, factors that remained statistically significant were age, history of hypertension or malignancy, prior bleed, and mean arterial blood pressure at admission. Hematoma volume (hazard ratio for every 100-cm(3) increase, 1.02; 95% confidence interval [CI], 1.01-1.03) and thickness (hazard ratio for every 10-mm-increase, 1.10; 95% CI, 1.04-1.16) were also independent predictors of death. Age, hypertension, malignancy, prior bleed, admission hematoma volume and thickness, and mean arterial blood pressure are the most important predictors for rebleeding and death in the population after a first SICH., for the very best in carp and game fishing. To Create a Client Connection Pool Use the Create Client Connection Pool wizard to create a new JDBC connection pool. In the navigation pane, expand Configuration, and then expand Databases, where the portal host's client connection pool is located. Double-click the client connection pool to open the Create Client Connection Pool dialog, where you can configure the connection pool. In the Connections tab, provide a connection pool name. This is a unique, descriptive name that identifies the pool for the client connection management application. An example connection pool name might be MyClientPool. Provide a location on the server where the client
