The result? Players feel more true to life and move in a way that resembles the way their real-life counterparts move. The system is also designed to take into account player movement, including directions and distances between players, which improves the way players move as they run between positions and challenge opposition players. Players are also more likely to be rewarded in these interactive moments, which means taking a chance to chase the ball, for example, becomes more rewarding. Key Features Starting from scratch for the first time, we're redesigning this site. There are some cool things that are coming but in the mean time, make yourself at home and check out what we've got.
