Matka Live Kerala. 2016 Family's eyes wide open. The House Judiciary Committee has scheduled a hearing on Tuesday for former White House counsel Don McGahn to testify about his interactions with the president. And he will not be alone: McGahn's attorney will also be there, along with at least one other former Trump official. What are the details? Federal investigators first approached McGahn in the spring of 2018 about his recollections of events during the early part of the administration and said he had witnesses who would vouch for his story. McGahn passed that information along to others in the White House, and his attorneys leaked those statements to congressional Democrats.

McGahn has been subpoenaed to testify in front of the House Judiciary Committee, which is investigating whether President Donald Trump has committed any crimes. A committee official told The Washington Post that McGahn will testify voluntarily on Tuesday and will talk about what he saw and heard, including regarding the investigation into allegations that Trump obstructed justice by asking McGahn to fire special counsel Robert Mueller. The Post reported that the committee is also trying to determine whether McGahn helped orchestrate the firing of former FBI Deputy Director Andrew McCabe, who was fired from the Bureau on Friday. The McGahn hearing comes as the White House escalated its fight with the committee, which is trying to find out if McGahn has any "material" information about Trump's alleged ties to Russia. The White House has so far refused to send McGahn to testify before the committee. ABC News recently revealed that Trump directed McGahn to block the appointment of Special Counsel Mueller
