days away from the start of Season 9's production and those involved in the series are still keeping their cards close to the vest as we talk to new cast member N'Joma Kwok. Writer Dan Ewins has this to say about the upcoming three-hour episode: "It's just a single shot, it won't be a wrap up, it's not an ending of any sort." And that's about as much as the official press release has to offer. Paul Lee and Aya Cash star as Arthur Dent and Ford Prefect. Featuring 1,001 other locations, the episode is described as being set in a "derelict museum". It's not to be confused with the Office style set used in part three of season 8, which was in fact a set based in San Francisco. We'll be there for all the news from the set come filming day but first, it's time to catch up with the new cast addition.

The Muse is Kwok's first American television role since The Good Wife. The Muse was one of a trio of short stories Kip's future self wrote for his autobiography. The other two tales are The Sad Fermata and The Empty Room. On his Muse character, Kwok told Stylist: There are three stories. I was supposed to read it in English and then we would work on the casting. Finnish actress Elina Sissi was attached to the role at one point, playing the Muse's mother. The Muse is certainly a unique character to work with and when I met the creative team, I felt like I was able to read her personality, the way she talks and moves.

With the others, you get a sense of who they are through the content, but we did get to have a real conversation and create something together. As far as the Muse is concerned, I hope people will be able to care about her, even though she's a bit of an unlikeable character. A regular cast member I didn't meet yet, but I know they've been out, is Paul Lee, as Arthur Dent. I still can't believe he agreed to take part in the reboot. We were sent a very beautiful looking memo and he was very excited about it, he's very much looking forward to being back on stage. Aya Cash also on set with Paul Lee. As for her character, Ford Prefect, she said: I'm playing a kind of version of myself. 5ec8ef588b
